Article 1

Lebanese joint-stock companies and the branches of foreign financial intermediation institutions whose main object is to undertake financial intermediation activities, as specified in Article 2 of this Law, are considered financial intermediation institutions.

The professional undertaking of financial intermediation activities in Lebanon is restricted to banks and financial institutions registered with the Banque du Liban, and to financial intermediation institutions that meet the legal requirements stipulated by this Law.

Article 2

The activities of financial intermediation institutions include the following operations that they undertake in the regular course of their business, for their own account or on behalf of their clients:

- 1- Spot, term, future, option and swap transactions, and transactions on derivatives or structured financial instruments concerning:

- Stocks and all other financial instruments and securities, including debt instruments and government bonds.
 - Commercial papers.
 - Currencies.
 - Precious metals.
 - Commodities.
- 2- Operations on all negotiable financial instruments.
- 3- Portfolio management operations.

In order to carry out their activities, financial intermediation institutions have the right to undertake other operations that are complementary to their main objective. They are however prohibited from undertaking any commercial or industrial activity or any activity unrelated to financial intermediation. The Banque du Liban will issue regulations and instructions regarding the implementation of this Law, to determine the definition and meaning of the expressions specified in this Article, along with the conditions and limits for the implementation of the provisions of this Article to banks and financial institutions.

Article 3

Revenues and profits generated by operations specified in Article 2 are exempted from the tax on the revenues of movable capital stipulated in Title III of the Income Tax Law . However, they remain taxable under the provisions of Title I of the said Law, as profits made by any business enterprise in the course of its professional activities.

Article 4

A financial intermediation institution must obtain a prior license from the Banque du Liban before starting its activities. The Central Council of the Banque du Liban grants such a license to the extent it deems serving the public interest. In this respect, the Council has a discretionary power to grant or refuse the license.

Article 5

1²- The shares of a Lebanese financial intermediation institution must all be nominal.

- 2- A prior authorization by the Banque du Liban is required for:
- a- Any assignment of shares of a financial intermediation institution that leads, directly or indirectly, to the acquisition by a person of more than 10% (ten percent) of total shares. The transfer of shares by inheritance, by assignment between spouses or between ascendants and descendants, is not considered as an assignment in the sense of this paragraph.
 - b- Any intended amendment to the bylaws of the financial intermediation institution.

Any institution not included in the List of Financial Intermediation Institutions is prohibited from undertaking financial intermediation activities or from using the expressions "Financial Intermediation Institution", "Owner of a Financial Intermediation Institution", "Financial Intermediary", or any other similar expression in any language, whether in its corporate name, in its objective, or in its advertisements. It is also prohibited from using these expressions in a manner that might mislead the public about its nature.

A financial intermediation institution must indicate its registration number on the List of Financial Intermediation Institutions under the same conditions and on the same documents as those required by the registration procedure of the Commercial Register.

Article 7

The Central Council of the Banque du Liban shall determine the minimum capital of a Lebanese financial intermediation institution and the minimum capital to be allocated to the branch of a foreign financial intermediation institution authorized to operate in Lebanon.

In both cases, the Central Council may, at any time, modify the required minimum capital and set a time limit to allow existing financial intermediation institutions to regularize their status accordingly.

The capital of the Lebanese financial intermediation institution, or that of the branch of a foreign financial intermediation institution, must be paid up in full in a single cash payment ¹.

Article 8

The Banque du Liban shall determine the valuation principles for assets that constitute a counterpart to the shareholders equity of a financial intermediation institution.
